Personally appeared before me Annie Burns who after being duly sworn deposes and says that she is the daughter of L. H. Thompson who died intestate in the year 1914. That when L. H. Thompson died he left surviving him his wife, Jane S. Thompson; three sons, Sherman C. Thompson, Alvin M. Thompson and Lowell Benton Thompson; and four daughters, Ollie Thompson Plumbley, Annie Burns, Grace Hester and Lola Stella Thompson Cox. That Lowell Benton Thompson died intestate Oct. 6, 1946, leaving surviving him his wife Inez Carnes Thompson and daughter Bobbie Jean Thompson who now resides in Hammond, Indiana. That Lola Stella Thompson Cox died intestate Jan. 29, 1936, leaving surviving her her husband, Albert J. Cox, two sons, Frank C. Cox and James T. Cox, and a daughter, Lucille C. Bayne. That subsequent to the death of Lola Stella Thompson Cox, Albert Cox remarried and then died intestate Nov. 13, 1947, leaving surviving him his wife, Elizabeth Williams Cox, now Elizabeth C. Stamey, and children, Lucille C. Bayne, Frank C. Cox and James T. Cox.

That when L. H. Thompson ~~die~~ he owned 30.1 acres of land in Saluda Township. That his estate was never probated and the ownership of the land has passed to his heirs and to his heirs' heirs until now Jane S. Thompson, Sherman C. Thompson, Alvin M. Thompson, Inez Carnes Thompson, Bobbie Jean Thompson, Ollie Thompson Plumbley,
