

8. The purchase of any items needed for my health or comfort as may be deemed appropriate and/or necessary.

9. The payment of all just debts contracted by me, or on my behalf.

10. The acquisition of properties, either real or personal, which may be acquired for the purpose of producing income for my estate or providing shelter for myself.

11. The disposition of any properties, real or personal, which may, due to changed circumstances, be considered to be a liability or which may, in the judgment of Lottie Waddell, be unprofitable.

at 7/1,

I do strictly charge Lottie Waddell to act in all matters as though the transaction was being conducted by me, and on my own behalf. Realizing, however, that the exercise of any discretionary judgment involves a risk of error, I do hereby relieve and absolve her of responsibility and/or liability for any mistaken judgments which she may, from time to time, acting as my attorney, shall make.

By the execution of this document I hereby revoke and withdraw any previously executed powers of attorney, and by copy of this document do hereby notify the holders of any such instruments that they are hereby relieved and discharged from any further responsibilities as my attorney, guardian, or agent; and I do hereby strictly charge all persons and institutions indebted to me that they shall not honor any such previously executed documents. Those creditors with whom I regularly transact business are also to be notified by copy of this document that only Lottie Waddell or myself is to contract debts on my behalf.

In addition to the powers expressly outlined within this instrument, I do specifically empower Lottie Waddell to transfer any and all funds deposited in my name with any savings institutions wherever located, to any other savings institution which, in her judgment or mine, would
