

The image shows a scan of a ledger page. The page is divided into a grid of columns and rows. The top-left corner contains the number '48'. The right side of the page features a vertical strip with several small, dark rectangular marks, possibly representing punch holes or scanning artifacts. The page is otherwise blank, with no text or data entries.