

8. If the wife shall die in the lifetime of the husband, he shall permit her will to be proved or administration upon her personal estate and effects to be taken out by the person or persons who would have been entitled to do so, had the husband died in her lifetime.

9. On the death of the husband in the lifetime of the wife, all his separate estate, whether real or personal, which he shall not have disposed of in his lifetime or by will, shall, subject to his debts and engagements, go and belong to the person who would have become entitled thereto, as if the wife had died in the lifetime of the husband.

10. If the husband shall die in the lifetime of the wife, she shall permit his will to be proved or administration upon his personal estate and effects to be taken out by the person or persons who would have been entitled to do so, had the wife died in his lifetime.

11. It is hereby agreed and declared that the provisions herein made are satisfactory to the wife and she does hereby accept such in full satisfaction and bar of the dower or thirds to which, by common law, by statute, custom, or otherwise, she might be entitled in or out of the freehold hereditaments of or to which the husband now has, or shall during his lifetime be seized or entitled. The wife hereby represents that in entering into this agreement, she is accepting same with full knowledge of the husband's financial standing, and taking into consideration all property that he owns, wheresoever situate, and hereby agrees that if the husband carries out the terms of this agreement, she releases and relinquishes all right, title or claim that she now has, or may hereafter have, in and to all of the personal or real property that he now has, or might hereafter acquire, and that she will never make further or additional claim or claims, or permit same to be made for her, either against him, his heirs at law, his executors, or assigns, so long as he carries out the terms of this contract.
