

of their personal property, furniture and furnishings. The husband is to retain the furniture and furnishings in the mobile home with the following exceptions. The wife is to receive the portable t.v. set, one of the air conditioners, the bed that she used to sleep in and the sewing machine along with any of her clothes. Furthermore, it appears that the parties each own an automobile, both of which are under lien to Banker's Trust. The parties have agreed that each will be responsible for one-half of the total payment due to Banker's Trust. The wife presently has in her possession a Cadillac Seville automobile and the husband has a Lincoln Continental. The parties agree that they will transfer and execute any and all documents of title and/or registration as may be necessary to vest full and complete title in the automobile to the other party. Finally, it appears that the husband was previously ordered by this Court to pay an attorney's fee to the Petitioner's attorney, by Order dated February 18, 1981. The Respondent has apparently not complied with this Order. However, before finding the Respondent in Contempt of Court the Petitioner's attorney has advised the Court that they will allow the Respondent thirty days from the date of this order within which to comply with the Court's previous Order. The Respondent is therefore, accordingly, given thirty days from the date of this Order within which to comply with all of the particulars of the Court's previous Order dated February 18, 1981.

As indicated hereinbefore, Respondent's counsel advised the Court that the Respondent did not desire to contest the divorce. The Court received testimony from the Petitioner as well as her corroborating witness and is satisfied and finds that the Petitioner is entitled to a complete divorce a vinculo matrimonii on the grounds as alleged in the Petitioner's Amended Petition. The Court further finds

JRP