Vermont Woman Pleads Guilty in Death of Greenville Man

Thirteenth Circuit Solicitor Walt Wilkins states that Heather Mallett, 47, pled guilty on April 12, 2017, to Arson in the First Degree in the death of Greenville resident Johnny McCarter. The Honorable Perry H. Gravely sentenced Mallett to thirty years in the South Carolina Department of Corrections, suspended on the service of thirteen and one-half years and followed by five years of probation.

Evidence presented at the hearing by Assistant Solicitor Allen Fretwell established, on February 11, 2015, at approximately 10:50 pm, Mallett set fire to McCarter's home at 459 Becky Gibson Road in Greenville County. According to Fretwell, Mallett and McCarter were in a relationship at the time of the incident, and witnesses told investigators that the two were arguing several hours prior to the fire. Mallett's friend, Sarah Pope, told police she drove Mallett to the incident location around 10:30 pm, thinking Mallett would get her stuff and come back with her to spend the night. After a few minutes, Mallett returned and told Pope she could not get anyone to come to the door and that she would be spending the night on the porch (though it was extremely cold that evening.) Mallett told Pope someone would be coming to get her in about an hour, so Pope left her there. At approximately 10:50 pm, McCarter's neighbors noticed the fire and contacted 911. Pope identified the photo of a shirt located by investigators close to the incident location as the one Mallett was wearing when she dropped her off.

Approximately six hours after the fire was reported, according to Fretwell, Mallett knocked on the door of a neighbor's house and told the occupants she had "been in a fire" earlier that night, giving them the impression she had lost her house in a fire. While waiting for her ride, Mallett watched the news with the neighbors. When the news reported the fire, she had little or no reaction, but when the reporter indicated the discovery of a body, Mallett appeared to be genuinely surprised. According to the neighbors, Mallett said, "No, that ain't right. That wasn't the same fire I was in. They didn't nobody die. Nobody died. He didn't die." Mallett then changed her story and told the neighbors she was just walking by a fire and saw some people with whom she "hung out for awhile."

Fretwell told the Court the investigation revealed that the fire started near the front porch of the victim's residence (where the Δ told Pope she intended to "spend the night") though soil samples produced no evidence of ignitable liquids. According to the medical examiner, the victim died as a result of the injuries he sustained in the fire, with indications of soot in his airways and on his head and neck. A toxicology report indicated the victim's blood-alcohol concentration was 0.273% at the time of his death.

According to Wilkins, Mallett will not be eligible for parole and will be required to serve at least eighty-five (85) percent of her sentence since the charge carries a maximum sentence of twenty years or more.
