On October 14, 2011 SCDHEC placed the draft General Construction Permit on their website for public notice. There is a 45 day public notice period available to submit comments, concerns and suggested changes.

Greenville County's LDD has had the opportunity to review an advanced copy of the draft regulations and will be submitting comments and suggestions for changes. I recommend that each of you take this opportunity to review the new regulations, determine how this will effect your operation and voice your concerns and suggest changes.

It is the intent of SCDHEC to issue the new regulations in early 2012 and as you know once it has been adopted the Land Development Division will be responsible for implementing the final regulations in our permitting process.

All comments are due by November 28, 2011 and you can reach the proposed draft by the SCDHEC link on our website.
