

construed to enable the Grantors, or the Trustee, or either of them, or any other person to purchase, exchange, or otherwise deal with or dispose of all or any part of the corpus or income of the trusts for less than an adequate consideration in money or money's worth, or to enable the Grantors to borrow all or any part of the corpus or income of the trusts, directly or indirectly, without adequate interest or security. No person, other than the Trustee, shall have or exercise the power to vote or direct the voting of any shares or other securities of the trusts, to control the investment of the trusts either by directing investments or reinvestments or by vetoing proposed investments or reinvestments, or to reacquire or exchange any property of the trusts by substituting other property of an equivalent value.

7. Principal and Income. The Trustee shall have the power to determine the allocation of receipts between corpus and income, and to apportion extraordinary and share dividends between corpus and income, and to treat amortization of mortgages and capital expenditures as a charge to income, provided such allocation or apportionment is not inconsistent with the beneficial enjoyment of trust property accorded to a life tenant or remainderman under the general principles of the law of trusts, and provided that all rights to subscribe to new or additional shares or securities and all liquidating dividends shall be deemed to be corpus.