financial institution, any funds or checks which may come into her hands as such attorney;

(g) to receipt therefor, sign my name thereto, endorse the same for deposit or collection, and from time to time to withdraw any and all moneys deposited with any such depositories (or any other depository), now or hereafter having moneys, valuable papers or other items of value belonging to me, and to that end and for that purpose to draw checks and receipts in my name.

This power of attorney is also given to express now, while I am of sound mind, my considered desire that no artificial means be used to prolong my life during any future sickness I may have, when there is no reasonable expectation on the part of the physician or physicians concerned with my wellbeing that I may be restored to sufficient health to consciously experience satisfaction in future living.

"Artificial means", as used above, has reference to:

1. intravenous feeding;
2. the use of tubes inserted in any orifice of my body for the purpose of inserting any fluid or substance into my body, or of removing any fluid or substance from my body;
3. the use of any oxygen tent or other artificial method of encouraging or making breathing easier;
4. the insertion in the body of any mechanical device such as a heart-pacer or other aid to, or substitute for, any vital organ of my body; and
5. any other like medical or therapeutic practice, system or device;

but such does not apply to medicines given orally or otherwise for the sole purpose of relieving apparent pain or unnecessary discomfort. My attorney-in-fact is vested with authority to decline further treatment of any kind or nature at any time after she is convinced that to accept or permit any further treatment would be ineffective to restore me to health sufficient
