The mortgagee agrees to release property from this mortgage on a release price basis of $1,384.60 per acre, or fractional portion thereof; provided, however, that such release does not impair the value of the security remaining, taking into consideration the total value of the security securing the note and the balance due thereon. Provided, also, that said payments are to be credited to the next note payment owed and that said release payments do not exceed the amount of any note payment in any one calendar year. In the event said release payments exceed the note payment, then the substitute collateral agreement will be used to release property from this mortgage.

It is further understood and agreed between the parties that any property released from date until January 1, 1974, must be done by way of substitute collateral agreement.
