Foreword

The United States entered “the war to end all wars” seventy years ago, but much may still be learned from a study of that vast military and diplomatic experience. Accordingly, the Center of Military History is now bringing back into print a series of volumes on the World War I period. The facsimile reprint of the Order of Battle of the United States Land Forces in the World War, in five volumes, provides a logical introduction to the series. It will be followed shortly by a newly formatted edition of the United States Army in the World War (1917–1919), a major collection of documents pertaining to the conflict.

The concise and unique data in the Order of Battle is central to any serious examination of the Army’s involvement in World War I. The Center’s predecessors—the Army War College’s Historical Section, and the Special Staff’s Historical Division—originally published this work in three volumes. The first two concentrated on the American Expeditionary Forces (AEF). Volume 1 covers the AEF’s general headquarters; the American Services of Supply; armies; army corps; and separate forces, including the three French army corps under American command in 1918 as well as American units in North Russia and Siberia. Volume 2 provides outline histories of the AEF’s divisions. The essays in these two volumes combine information about the command and composition of units with tables that offer the reader a broad survey of operations in both major and minor theaters and the rear areas. Volume 3, consisting of five chapters organized in two parts, presents an array of useful information on the zone of the interior. Part 1 includes the organization and activities of the War Department, the territorial departments, the divisions that did not deploy overseas, and data about posts, camps, and stations. Part 2 consists of a directory of troops, covering all organizations that made up the Army between 1917 and 1919. Each volume begins with a guide to the use of the material.

In publishing this facsimile reprint, the Center has made some formatting changes to assist the modern reader, but the original text is unchanged. Volumes 1 and 2 are reprinted intact. Volume 3, first published in two parts, is now divided into three, in three separate volumes. For the reader’s convenience, a new appendix, “Posts, Camps, and Stations Index," has been added to the new Part 2. The original Part 2, the directory of troops, is now Part 3. The volume's consecutive pagination remains the same. To all volumes the Center has added its own front matter and, after the half-title, incorporated relevant pages of the original introductory material (indicated by brackets around the original folios).

Any work that attempts to describe such a vast and complex subject inevitably includes errors of both omission and commission. The Order of Battle is no exception. No attempt has been made to correct any errors in the work. For those students who wish to pursue these matters, they will find most of the original source material in the custody of the National Archives and Records Administration. What remains of the original manuscript for the volumes is in the custody of the Center and is available for examination.

In increasing numbers, military historians are coming to realize that the Army's experiences in World War I offer students of the profession of arms a vast classroom in which they might study the many facets of their subject. The Order of Battle is not a definitive guide, but it is a fine place to begin any in-depth study of that mighty war.

Zone of the Interior:
Territorial Departments
Tactical Divisions Organized in 1918
Posts, Camps, and Stations

SCOPE OF THIS VOLUME AND SUGGESTIONS FOR ITS USE

SCOPE

Chapter I, Organization and Activities of the War Department, consists of an introduction and 23 sections representing the main divisions of the Department. The contents of each section have been arranged, as far as practicable, under these general headings: orientation, functions, chiefs, organization and development, personnel, and activities.

Chapter II, Territorial Departments, has an introduction and nine sections, each of which deals with one territorial department. The contents of each section are generally grouped under extent, command, activities, inactive stations, and strength of troops stationed within the department; active posts, camps, and stations are accounted for in Chapter IV.

Chapter III covers the tactical divisions organized in 1918, preceded by an introduction. Each division is described under command, composition, and record of events.

Chapter IV, Posts, Camps, and Stations, includes an introduction; a departmental index to posts, camps, and stations; and nine sections, each section representing the posts, camps and stations within one territorial department arranged in alphabetical order. All large posts or camps are covered in considerable detail under history, description, command status, camp commanders, strength, and troops. Stations of minor importance are treated less extensively.

Chapter V, Directory of Troops, contains an introduction and unit index, followed by a succinct account of practically every Army unit that was at any time stationed in the Zone of the Interior in 1917, 1918, and 1919.

USE

Before attempting to look up any information, consult the table of contents. Having found the subject matter in a certain chapter, read the introduction to that chapter first and then locate the specific item. Take advantage of all cross references.

In Chapter I, all sections appearing in the table of contents, except those dealing with the War Department proper and the War Department General Staff, which head the list, are arranged in alphabetical order. In order to obtain any desired information, determine first the department or bureau under which it will most likely be found, next consult the table of contents under the proper section. In this connection, it should be noted that Section 3, Adjutant General's Department, contains under Activities information regarding Army strength, battle casualties, decorations, chaplains, officers' training camps and schools, recruiting, prisoners of war, and other items of interest.

Chapters II, III, IV, and V are principally devoted to the description of troops serving in the United States and to the facilities placed at their disposal. In order to determine, for instance, the status of the 71st Inf. during the War, it will be necessary to consult first of all the Directory of Troops, Chapter V. Here, opposite Infantry Regiments, we note page number 1372, the beginning of the detailed description of this category. Following the numerical order of regiments, the 71st Inf. will be found on p. 1384, where it is recorded that the regiment was organized in Aug. 1918 at Camp Meade, Md., was stationed at this camp until demobilized in Feb. 1919, and was a component of the 21st Inf. Brig. On p. 1364, we learn that the 21st Inf. Brig. was part of the 11th Division. Consulting Chapter III, p. 645, the composition of the 21st Inf. Brig. as well as that of the 11th Div. may be ascertained; also the names of the division commanders, chiefs of staff, and brigade commanders may be determined. In addition, the record of events of the 11th Div., appearing on p. 646, will supply general information regarding all the components of the Division.

In order to get acquainted with Camp Meade, Md., the camp occupied by the 71st Inf., consult the Departmental Index of Chapter IV, p. 685, which will disclose that Camp Meade was located in the Eastern Department. Following the alphabetical order of stations within that Department, we find Camp Meade recorded on pp. 745-747; under Divisional Units, p. 746, the activities of the 11th Div., while at this camp, are briefly recorded, which should be read in connection with the information preceding it. As an aid to understanding expressions like 11th Div. (less 17th Inf., 63 Inf., 24th F. A. Brig.), the table appearing on p. 680, entitled Composition of Infantry Divisions, should be consulted.

Second example: In order to determine the unit history of the 4th (II) Aer. Sq. during the War, read introduction to Chapter V, where the meaning of the Roman numeral in parentheses is explained. Next turn to Unit Index, p. 996, for numbered aero squadrons which are shown as beginning on p. 998. The record of the 4th (II) Aer. Sq. will be found on p. 999; accordingly, it was organized in June 1919 at Hazelhurst Field, N. Y., and was transferred to Mitchel Field, N. Y., in Nov. 1919; remaining active throughout that year. Turning to pp. 734 and 759, respectively, we find the aero squadron recorded under Nondivisional Units at Hazelhurst Field, N. Y., and at Mitchel Field, N. Y. According to information appearing on p. 733, the training of squadrons stationed at the airfields on Long Island, N. Y., was controlled by Headquarters 1st Provisional Wing at Hazelhurst Field.

Third example: The unit history of the 5th Co., C. D. of The Columbia, is to be determined. Turn to Unit Index, p. 996 and note Coast Defense Commands p. 1142. Beginning on this page, all coast defense commands as constituted during and after July 1917 are recorded in alphabetical order, C. D. of The Columbia and the 5th Co. appearing on p. 1149. Accordingly, this company was organized from 5th Co. Oreg. C. A. N. G. at Fort Canby, Wash., in Jan. 1918 and demobilized at the same post in Dec. 1918. In order to ascertain the higher unit, to which the C. D. of The Columbia belonged, we turn to Chapter II, Western Department, p. 616, where it is stated that the C. D. of The Columbia with headquarters at Fort Stevens, Oreg., were part of the North Pacific Coast Artillery District. A description of Fort Canby, Wash., will be found in Chapter IV. Fort Canby was situated in the Western Department, according to p. 682 of the Departmental Index. The alphabetical order of posts, camps, and stations of the Western Department shows Fort Canby on p. 939, where a brief account of the post is given and four companies, including the 5th Co., of the C. D. of The Columbia are recorded.

CHAPTER II

TERRITORIAL DEPARTMENTS

INTRODUCTION

ORIENTATION

Geographical subdivisions of the country into military departments for purposes of administration began during the Revolution. The Continental Congress, by legislative enactment, established the Eastern, New York, Northern, Southern, and Middle Departments.

Following the War of 1812, departments were designated numerically. In later years, the geographical locations of these departments varied widely and higher territorial echelons, called divisions, were introduced. This organization was abolished in 1853 and replaced by the Departments of the East, the Pacific, the West, New Mexico, and Texas.

The Civil War gave rise to the creation of numerous departments, which were named in accordance with their geographical situation, such as the Department of Washington (D. C.), of Virginia, of the Susquehanna, of the Gulf, etc. In the postwar period administrative divisions were reintroduced and again abolished in 1891.

Incidental to the Spanish-American War, new departments were organized in Cuba, Puerto Rico, and the Philippines. Subsequently and until 1913, the system of territorial organization underwent several changes leading up to the establishment of the Eastern, Central, Southern, Western, Hawaiian, and Philippine Departments, which arrangement continued into 1917.

FUNCTIONS OF THE DEPARTMENT COMMANDER

To command all the military forces of the Government within the territorial limits of his department, whether of the line or staff, except in so far as exempted from his control by the Secretary of War. To order the payment of troops at posts or places within his department excepted from his control, unless otherwise directed by the Secretary of War. To make or cause to be made at least one administrative inspection each year and such other inspections as he may deem necessary at arsenals, depots of the supply departments, general hospitals, general recruit depots, or other places, with the exception of the United States Military Academy and the United States Disciplinary Barracks or any branch thereof, at which officers and enlisted men are on duty within the limits of his department.

Territorial Departments

In time of peace, to prepare for war, under the direction of the War Department, all the troops and all the military resources of his department and to administer all the military affairs of his department, except as otherwise prescribed. In time of war, to recruit, organize, equip, train, and forward all reservists, militia, and volunteers called for within his department, and to administer the affairs of troops not forming part of the forces in the field, or excepted from his control. To administer his department so as to insure complete continuity of function in peace and war, and the tactical division and other tactical units so as to insure their constant readiness to take the field.

To have jurisdiction in the matter of trials by courts-martial and in all other matters respecting the administration of military justice over all persons subject to military law stationed within his department and not within the general court-martial jurisdiction of another officer.

To exercise control over all units, institutions, establishments, and organizations within the territorial limits of the department for purposes of administration, supply, and discipline, except the following :

(1) The Army War College, Army Staff College, Engineer School, Coast Artillery School, Army School of the Line, Army Signal School, Mounted Service School, Army Field Engineer School, Army Field Service and Correspondence School of Medical Officers, School of Fire for Field Artillery, School of Musketry, Air Service stations—in all that pertains to the courses of instruction or their separate organization and administration as schools.

(2) The United States Military Academy, Army Medical School at Washington, D. C., arsenals, ordnance proving grounds, general depots of supply, general service recruiting stations, general recruit depots, United States Disciplinary Barracks and any branch thereof, United States War Prison Barracks, general hospitals, such permanent fortifications as may be in process of construction, officers employed on special duty under the Secretary of War, and any military force temporarily within a department when such force is commanded by an officer exercising general court-martial jurisdiction—except for prescribed supervisory control over the issue of supplies.

(3) All organized tactical divisions of the Regular Army, National Guard, and National Army, and divisional camps and cantonments<sup>1</sup>—in all that pertains to administration, supply, instruction, training, and discipline, including the power of appointing general courts-martial.

(4) Ports of embarkation.

(5) Permanent remount depots at Front Royal, Va., Fort Reno, Okla., and Fort Keogh, Mont., as well as auxiliary remount depots or animal embarkation depots attached to camps, cantonments, or ports of embarkation.

(6) Quartermaster Mechanical Repair Shop Units Nos. 304, 305, and 306.

(7) Training brigades, Air Service flying and balloon schools and schools of military aeronautics—in all that pertains to training and administration.

ORGANIZATION AND DEVELOPMENT

TERRITORIAL ORGANIZATION

On May 1, 1917, the territorial organization of the continental United States, which at that time had consisted of the Eastern, Central, Southern, and Western Departments, was changed to comprise six departments as follows: The Northeastern Department, the Eastern Department, the Southeastern Department, the Central Department, the Southern Department, and the Western Department.

In addition, there were the Philippine Department and the Hawaiian Department embracing the insular possessions.

On June 26, 1917, the Canal Zone which until then had formed part of the Eastern Department, was constituted an administrative entity under the designation of Panama Canal Department.

On August 20, 1920, the six territorial departments embracing the continental area of the United States were discontinued and superseded by nine corps areas, which were established for purposes of administration, training, and tactical control.

DEPARTMENT STAFF

Territorial departments were organized to assist the War Department in its functions. They were modeled after the central organization in Washington and thus represented miniature war departments within their respective territorial spheres.

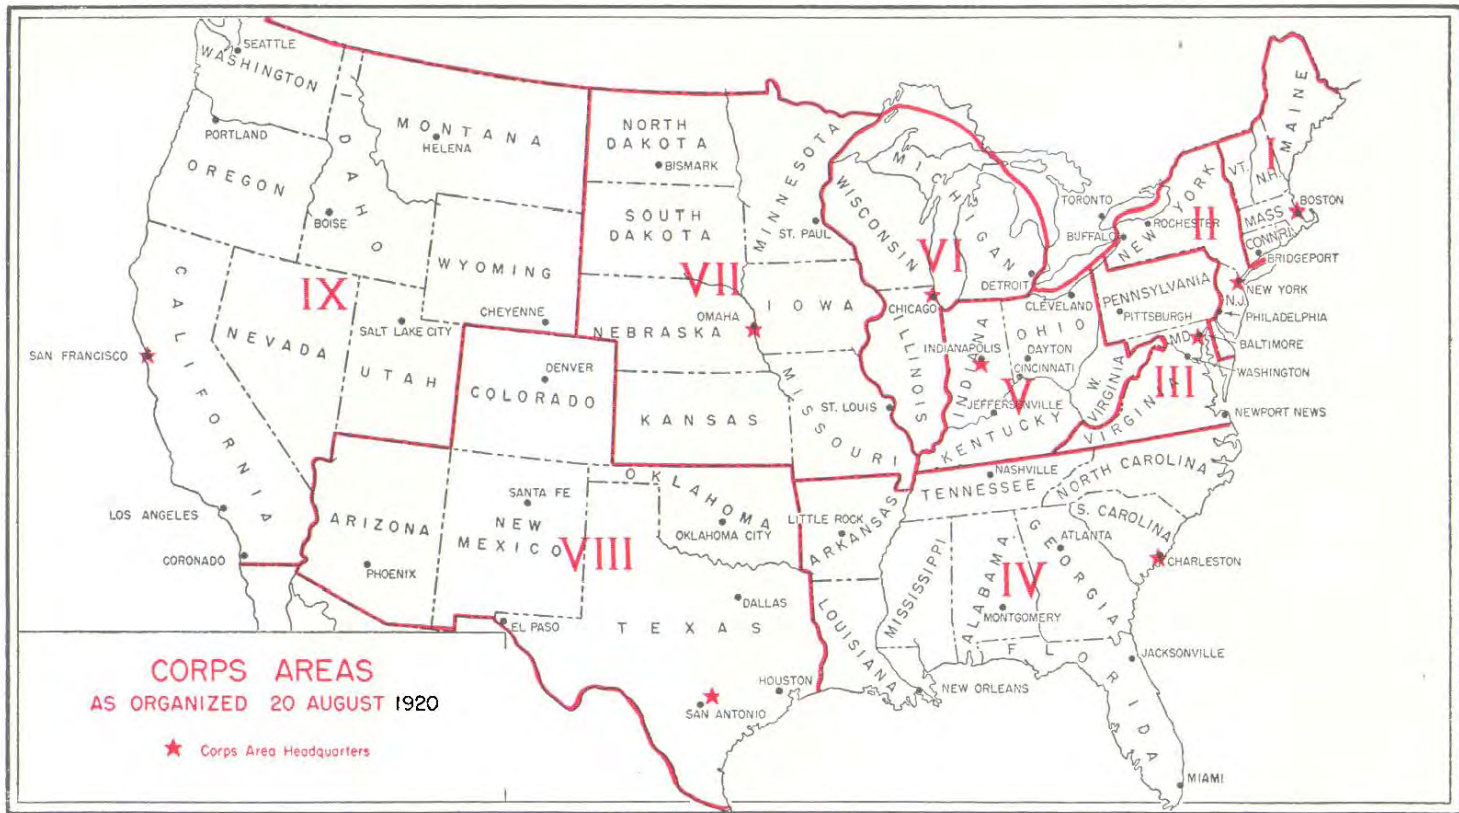

Prior to the creation of corps areas on August 20, 1920, the department commander's staff was organized accordingly and consisted of the authorized aides, a chief of staff, assistant chief of staff, officer in charge of militia affairs, department adjutant, department inspector, department judge advocate, department quartermaster, assistant to the department quartermaster, department surgeon, department engineer, department ordnance officer, and department signal officer. This staff subsequently included an aeronautical or aviation officer, and a coast defense officer where required.

ACTIVITIES

REGULAR ARMY

Mobile Troops

The only troops of the mobile army remaining under the control of department commanders, during the fall of 1917, were units stationed within the departments at posts which were not exempted stations. Thus, departmental responsibility for organization and training was practically limited to regular organizations in existence at outbreak of war or organized immediately thereafter and to National Army cavalry regiments raised in 1918. Even in these instances department control was transitory, ending when the unit left the department or entered a divisional camp.

Coast Artillery Districts and Companies

On May 1, 1917, a reorganization of coast artillery districts provided for five districts, viz:

North Atlantic Coast Artillery District in the Northeastern Department;

Middle Atlantic Coast Artillery District in the Eastern Department;

South Atlantic Coast Artillery District in the Southeastern Department;

North Pacific Coast Artillery District in the Western Department;

South Pacific Coast Artillery District in the Western Department.

When the Panama Canal Department was organized June 26, 1917, the Panama Coast Artillery District, which until then had been under the jurisdiction of the Eastern Department, was removed therefrom and placed under the Panama Canal Department.

Prior to 1916, all coast artillery companies furnishing the garrisons for the various coast defenses within the districts were numbered in one series. Thereafter, a reorganization took place whereby the companies at each fort were numbered serially and separately. In July 1917, the system was again altered to number all companies within each coast defense command serially.

MOBILIZATION OF THE NATIONAL GUARD

Practically all National Guard units mobilized on the Mexican Border in 1916 had been withdrawn and mustered out of Federal service by April 6, 1917. However, following outbreak of war, some units were shortly reinducted and, during the summer of 1917, practically all recognized units were again mustered in. These organizations remained under control of department commanders only until they departed for divisional camps.

After the federalization of these units, the States were authorized to organize and maintain a limited number of new units for domestic duty only. Upon recognition by the Federal Government, these State troops were furnished such arms, clothing, and equipment as were available.

NATIONAL ARMY

Except for the regiments of cavalry, numbered from 301 to 315, inclusive, and a few minor organizations, National Army units were organized and trained at divisional camps, outside the jurisdiction of department commanders.

UNITED STATES GUARDS

In December 1917, the President directed the organization, for the period of the existing emergency, of a force to be known as the United States Guards, National Army. Its enlisted strength, to be raised and maintained by voluntary enlistment and by draft, was not to exceed 25,000 men.

This force was organized by department commanders under the direction of the Chief of the Militia Bureau.

MILITARY ORGANIZATIONS AT EDUCATIONAL INSTITUTIONS

Reserve Officers' Training Corps Units

R.O.T.C. units of the senior and junior divisions were established under authority of the 1916 National Defense Act and were in operation throughout the war; they were organized at dates closely following their authorization in War Department bulletins. During the 1918 fiscal year, units were maintained at 119 educational institutions, officers being detailed as professors of military science and tactics.

For purposes of organization and control the Reserve Officers' Training Corps was directly under the supervision of the Secretary of War, but questions of administration, maintenance, and inspection were, as far as practicable, under the control of the several department commanders in whose departments the institutions were located.

United States Army Training Detachments and Students' Army Training Corps Units

In the spring and summer of 1918, Army Training Detachments were established at the various colleges by the Committee on Education and Special Training, under War Department authority, in connection with existing R.O.T.C. units.

The Students' Army Training Corps was organized in the summer of 1918, under the Selective Service Law of 1917, and its units were raised and maintained by voluntary induction and draft at various educational institutions as authorized by the Secretary of War (see p. 397).

The War Department administered the Students' Army Training Corps through the Committee on Education and Special Training of the Training and Instruction Branch, War Plans Division, General Staff. Lacking evidence to the contrary, it is assumed that the department commanders exercised the same general authority as they had over the Reserve Officers' Training Corps.

On October 1, 1918, the several training detachments then operating at institutions were merged into the Students' Army Training Corps as the vocational or "B" section. Concurrently, a collegiate or "A" section was inaugurated as part of the Corps.

A total of about 158,000 students were enrolled in S.A.T.C. units, and by November 11, 1918, some 11,000 students had already been assigned as candidates to officers' training schools while approximately 4,000 additional men had been selected to attend. The Corps was demobilized in December 1918, but at a few institutions the training personnel was retained in order to facilitate the reestablishment of R.O.T.C. units in 1919.

POSTS, CAMPS, AND STATIONS AND MILITARY PROPERTIES WITHIN THE DEPARTMENT

Many of the stations listed under the various departments fell into the several categories mentioned on pages 550,551 and were exempted stations for part or all of the war period. However, inasmuch as most of these stations were under limited or exclusive administrative control of department commanders throughout the war, all strictly military establishments within each department are listed. A complete account of each station, showing its history, description, command status, and troops where appropriate, will be found in Chapter 4.

Apart from posts, camps, and stations actually in use, the War Department held title to various other properties throughout the country. Certain responsibilities in connection therewith were placed upon department commanders.

POSTS, CAMPS, AND STATIONS WITHIN THE DEPARTMENT

All active stations, including those exempted from the control of the Department Commander, are described in Chapter 4, arranged by department. Description of all other properties, such as inactive stations, reservations, militia target ranges, and others, to which the responsibility of the Department Commander extended, follows.

Inactive Stations

POSTS

Fort Clinch, Fla.: On north end of Amelia Island, Nassau County, about 50 miles north of St. Augustine. Area: About 694.5 acres. History: Probably named in honor of Bvt. Brig. Gen. Duncan L. Clinch (Col. 8th Inf., U. S. A.), who distinguished himself during the Seminole War (1835–36). Original reservation set apart from the public domain 1842. Construction began 1847 and was still incomplete 1861, when seized by Confederate forces. Reoccupied by United States troops 1862; garrison withdrawn 1869. Turned over to Engineer Department 1894. Portion of reservation turned over to Department of the Interior 1897. Temporarily occupied by troops 1898.

Fort Jackson, La.: On right bank of Mississippi River, Plaquemines Parish, about 73 miles below New Orleans. Area: About 577.6 acres. History: Probably named in honor of Maj. Gen. Andrew Jackson, U. S. A., when first occupied by United States troops 1814. Located on site of Fort Bourbon, erected during French or Spanish occupation. Present fort constructed 1824–32. Reservation set apart for military purposes 1842. Captured by Confederate forces 1861. Farragut's flotilla forced passage guarded in part by this fort 1862; thereafter reoccupied by Federal troops. Turned over to Engineer Department 1884.

Fort Livingstone, La.: On west end of Grand Terre Island, Jefferson Parish, at entrance of Frand Pass to Barataria Bay. Area: 126.16 acres. History: Original reservation acquired by purchase 1834; probably named in honor of Edward Livingstone, Aide-de-Camp to Maj. Gen. Andrew Jackson. Construction started 1840. Captured by Confederate forces 1861 and reoccupied by Federal troops 1863. Abandoned since close of Civil War. Turned over to Engineer Department 1884.

Fort Macomb, La.: Situated at Pass Chef Menteur, on Lake Borgne, Orleans Parish. Area: 16.03 acres. History: Probably named in honor of Maj. Gen. Alexander Macomb, U. S. A., a distinguished veteran of the War of 1812, and Commanding General of the Army 1828–41. Reservation set apart 1842 and originally known as Fort Wood. Constructed 1835–36; renamed Fort Macomb 1851; abandoned 1890.

Fort Macon, N. C.: At Topsail Inlet, Carteret County, 2 miles from Beaufort and Morehead City. Area: About 405 acres. History: Initially known as Fort Hampton in honor of Col. Andrew Hampton, N. C. Militia, who fought at King's Mountain 1780. Renamed in honor of Hon. Nathaniel Macon. Original reservation acquired by purchase 1810; construction began 1826. Taken by Confederate forces 1861 and recaptured by United States troops 1862 after a bombardment. Garrison withdrawn 1877 and post turned over to Engineer Department 1884.

Fort Marion, Fla.: Situated in the city of St. Augustine, St. Johns County. Area: Approximately 18.09 acres. History: Probably named in honor of Brig. Gen. Francis Marion, S. C. Militia, who received the thanks of Congress for services during the Revolution. An old Spanish work, period of 1565–1756, and known as the Castle of St. Mark. Name changed 1825; set apart for military purposes 1849. Certain privileges granted to St. Augustine Historical Society in connection with post, 1914.

Fort Pike, La.: About 35 miles northeast of New Orleans; south of Great Rigolet on northern margin of Petit Coquilles Island, which divides Lake Borgne from Lake Ponchartrain. Area: All the land in Sec. 19, T. 10 S., R. 15 E. History: Probably named in honor of Brig. Gen. Zebulon M. Pike, U. S. A., discoverer of Pike's Peak, who was killed in action in the assault on York (now Toronto), Upper Canada, 1813. Constructed 1819–21; set apart for military use 1842. Taken by Confederate forces 1861; recaptured by Federal troops 1862. Abandoned 1890.

Castle Pinckney, S. C.: Situated on Shutes Folly Island, at the mouth of Cooper River, opposite the southern extremity of the city of Charleston, and about 1 mile distant therefrom. Area: About 3.5 acres. History: Probably named in honor of Maj. Gen. Charles C. Pinckney, U. S. A., a distinguished veteran of the Revolutionary War. Originally constructed 1798; ceded to the United States by the State of S. C. 1805; reconstructed 1828–31. Seized by Confederate troops 1860; reoccupied by Federal forces 1865.

Fort Pulaski, Ga.: Situated on Cockspur Island, 14 miles from Savannah. Area: About 150 acres. History: Named in honor of Brig. Gen. Casimir Pulaski, Continental Army, who was mortally wounded in an assault on the city of Savannah 1780. Original reservation acquired by purchase 1830. Taken by Confederate troops 1861; recaptured by United States forces 1862. Unoccupied since Civil War.

Fort Taylor, Fla.: Situated at the southwestern extremity of the city of Key West, Monroe County. Area: About 72.21 acres. History: Named in honor of Maj. Gen. Zachary Taylor, U. S. A., a veteran of the War of 1812, who commanded United States forces in Florida during the Seminole War, and the American Army in Northern Mexico during the Mexican War. President of the United States 1849-50. Original reservation acquired by purchase 1845. Construction began 1844; first occupied 1861 and garrisoned during Civil War. Turned over to Engineer Department 1884. Garrisoned during war.

Fort Winyaw, S. C.: Situated on Blyth's Point, Georgetown Harbor, Georgetown District. Area: About 7 acres. History: Evidently named after nearby Winyaw Bay. Reservation acquired by purchase 1812. Fort evacuated 1814. Portion of reservation turned over to Treasury Department 1857 for lighthouse site.

Southern Department

1st Provisional Cavalry Brigade

(Attached to 1st Provisional Infantry Division)

Commander: Col. A. P. Blocksom; Hq. at Fort Sam Houston, Tex.

Composition: 3d Cav., 16th Cav.

These provisional divisions were given territorial assignments to border districts, which had been maintained since the Mexican border mobilization. Division commanders were charged with the administration, equipment, training and preparation for war service of their respective units; district commanders had the mission of defending and patrolling the border within their territorial jurisdictions. Assignments were made as follows:

To the 1st Provisional Division, the districts of Brownsville, Laredo, Eagle Pass, and Del Rio.

To the 2d Provisional Division, the districts of Big Bend, El Paso, and New Mexico.

To the 3d Provisional Division, the districts of Arizona, Nogales, and Yuma.

The foregoing organization obtained at outbreak of war and continued until April 30, 1917, when designation by districts gave way to designation by tactical units, to wit:

Old designation	New designation	Headquarters
Brownsville District.....	1st Brig., reinforced, 1st Prov. Inf. Div.....	Brownsville, Tex.
Laredo District.....	Det. 1st Prov. Inf. Div.....	Laredo, Tex.
Eagle Pass District.....	3d Brig., 1st Prov. Inf. Div.....	Eagle Pass, Tex.
Del Rio District.....	Det. 1st Prov. Inf. Div.....	Del Rio, Tex.
Big Bend District.....	Det. 2d Prov. Inf. Div.....	Marfa, Tex.
El Paso District.....	2d Prov. Inf. Div.....	El Paso, Tex.
New Mexico District.....	Det. 2d Prov. Inf. Div.....	Columbus, N. Mex.
Arizona District.....	Det. 3d Prov. Inf. Div.....	Douglas, Ariz.
Nogales District.....	Det. 3d Prov. Inf. Div.....	Nogales, Ariz.
Yuma District.....	14th Infantry.....	Yuma, Ariz.

On May 5, 1917, orders were issued organizing all forces within the Department into the I Provisional Army Corps, to become effective upon telegraphic notice from department headquarters. This paper organization included the troops mentioned above and certain corps troops and trains. However, on June 1, 1917, owing to the large number of troops ordered out of the Department, the organization of the forces into the I Provisional Army Corps and into provisional divisions and brigades was discontinued. The border area, on the same day, was reorganized into four districts as follows:

Brownsville District (headquarters at Brownsville, Tex.)
extending from Gulf of Mexico to Arroyo del Tigre, Tex., inclusive;

Laredo District (headquarters at Laredo, Tex.) extending from Arroyo del Tigre, exclusive, to Mofeta, Tex., inclusive, and embracing the former Laredo, Eagle Pass, and Del Rio Districts including Fort Clark, Tex.;

El Paso District (headquarters at El Paso, Tex.) extending from Mofeta, Tex., exclusive, to Arizona–New Mexico State line, and embracing the former Big Bend, El Paso, and New Mexico Districts;

Arizona District (headquarters at Douglas, Ariz.) extending from Arizona–New Mexico State line to California State line, and embracing the former Arizona, Nogales, and Yuma Districts, including Fort Huachuca, Ariz.

At the same time, the 5th, 7th, and 8th Cavalry Regiments were organized into a Provisional Cavalry Brigade under the command of Brig. Gen. Eben Swift. Simultaneously, the 5th, 13th, and 18th Field Artillery Regiments were ordered to form a Provisional Artillery Brigade under Brig. Gen. Edwin St. J. Greble. These commanders were charged with the administration, training, and preparation for war service of these units, but the protection of the border remained the responsibility of the Commander of the El Paso District within which the brigades were stationed.

On Nov. 18, 1917, in a further reorganization of the border forces, the Laredo District was subdivided into Laredo District and Eagle Pass District, and the El Paso District into Big Bend District and El Paso District, with limits as follows:

Laredo District (headquarters at Laredo, Tex.), extending from Arroyo del Tigre, Tex., exclusive, to Bigford, Tex., exclusive;

Eagle Pass District (headquarters at Eagle Pass, Tex.), extending from Bigford, Tex., inclusive, to Mofeta, Tex., inclusive, and representing the former Eagle Pass and Del Rio Districts;

Big Bend District (headquarters at Marfa, Tex.), extending from Mofeta, Tex., exclusive, to Polvo, Tex., inclusive, and representing the former Big Bend District;

El Paso District (headquarters at El Paso, Tex.), extending from Polvo, Tex., exclusive to Arizona–New Mexico State line.

The limits of the Brownsville and Arizona Districts remained unchanged.

On Nov. 27, 1917, the War Department ordered organization of the 15th Cavalry Division along the Mexican border, with Division Headquarters at Fort Bliss, Headquarters 1st Cavalry Brigade at Fort Sam Houston, Headquarters 2d Cavalry Brigade at Fort Bliss, and Headquarters 3d Cavalry Brigade at Douglas.

The Provisional Cavalry Brigade consisting of the 5th, 7th, and 8th Cavalry Regiments, organized May 23, 1917, was merged with the new division as 2d Cavalry Brigade. On May 11, 1918, the 15th Cavalry Division was discontinued as a divisional organization, all units pertaining to it remaining at their respective stations. For further details see pp. 673, 674.

On December 9, 1918, the boundary between the Big Bend District and the El Paso District was moved from Polvo, Tex., to Arroyo Macho, 6 miles west of old Fort Quitman, Arroyo Macho being included in the El Paso District.

1917

June 9, one officer killed by Mexicans in Brownsville District. November 12, 600 Carranzistas, driven out of Ojinaga, Mexico, by followers of Villa, interned at Presidio, Tex. December 20, raid on Indio Ranch (20 miles south of Eagle Pass, Tex.) resulted in pursuit of raiders into Mexico in which 17 bandits were killed. December 25, raid on Bright's Ranch (31 miles from Marfa, Tex.) resulted in pursuit of raiders into Mexico in which 18 bandits were killed.

1918

January 4, incident near Slaughter's Ranch, Ariz., resulting in the killing of three Mexicans by United States troops. March 25, raid on Neville's Ranch, marked by the killing of two civilians. Raiders pursued 90 miles into Mexico; 30 killed, 10 wounded. March 26, United States patrol attacked near Polvo, Tex.; Mexicans driven back across border with some casualties. August 27, a clash at Nogales, Ariz., between Mexican troops, estimated at 600, and American forces numbering 866 resulted in American casualties of two officers and one enlisted man killed and 26 men wounded; estimated Mexican casualties amounted to 30 killed and 70 wounded.

1919

June 14-16, affair at El Paso, Tex.: On June 14, Villa with 1,600 followers attacked Juarez, Mexico, held by 932 Carranzistas.

On the 14th and 15th, one American soldier and one civilian were killed, and two soldiers and four civilians wounded on the American side of the Rio Grande by stray fire from Villa's soldiers. On the night of June 15-16, some 3,600 United States troops crossed the international boundary line, dispersed the Villa troops and returned to their American base the following noon. Casualties inflicted on the Mexicans of Villa amounted to 123 killed, 29 wounded, and 75 taken prisoner. American casualties included two soldiers killed and 10 wounded.

In addition to the foregoing, some sixty-odd minor incidents occurred during the period beginning July 1, 1918 and ending June 30, 1919. Several American citizens were kidnapped and held for ransom while two Americans and three Mexicans were killed. On two occasions United States troops pursued cattle thieves into Mexico, killing six Mexicans on one foray and five on the other.

Canal Zone Events

SECURITY MEASURES

At outbreak of war, immediate steps were taken to put the entire garrison stationed within the Department in readiness for the defense of the Panama Canal and its utilities. The mobile troops were assigned definite sectors for observation and investigation, and preparations were made permitting rapid concentration within the areas assigned. Guard stations were maintained at Balboa; Pier No. 18; Miraflores; Pedro Miguel; Darien; Gamboa; Gatun, including the locks, Mindi railroad bridge, bascule bridge at Monte Lirio, and entrance to the Chagres River; Mount Hope; and Mindi Island. A total of 296 officers and 933 enlisted men was employed on this duty.

MAINTENANCE OF LAW AND ORDER

Supervision of elections in the Republic of Panama was undertaken in July 1918, in conformity with the provisions of Article 7 of the Treaty of 1903, to avoid trouble at the polls. This involved taking over the policing of the cities of Panama and Colon, stationing of small detachments at some 50 minor centers, and the use of several naval vessels to transport other detachments to nine ports. Within a few days after July 7, 1918, election day, all troops were withdrawn except from David, Chiriqui Province, where American interests required further protection.

INTERNMENT OF ENEMY ALIENS

On February 4, 1917, five German vessels were interned in Colon harbor and 104 crew members taken into custody. An internment camp on Taboga Island was established, to which the detained persons were transferred.

With the cooperation of the Republic of Panama, German and Austrian nationals residing in the Republic were arrested soon after the outbreak of war and sent to Taboga Island. On April 19, 1918, this internment camp was closed and the last detachment of the prisoners removed to the United States. During its existence, a total of 219 alien enemies had been received at the camp.

HAWAIIAN DEPARTMENT

EXTENT

The Department was established October 1, 1911, as part of the Western Division, under the name of Department of Hawaii. This designation was changed to Hawaiian Department, February 15, 1913, when the Western Division was discontinued. The Department embraced the Hawaiian Islands and their dependencies.

ACTIVITIES

The principal operations of the Department included: (1) maintenance of the coast defenses and (2) mobilization and muster-in of the National Guard.

The military situation in the Pacific area was such that no immediate problem of repelling invasion presented itself. It was, therefore, possible to transfer most of the regular mobile troops garrisoning the Department to the continent and to replace them, in part, by National Guard organizations inducted for that purpose.

Internment of Enemy Aliens

The captain and crew of the interned German sea raider Geier, which had taken refuge in Honolulu Harbor, were arrested February 5, 1917, and sent to Schofield Barracks, where they were held under guard until September 13, 1917. This contingent, numbering 164, and certain enemy sympathizers were then transferred to Fort Douglas, Utah, for further internment.

INDUCTED UNITS

At outbreak of war, the National Guard of Hawaii consisted of 4 regiments of infantry, 2 companies of coast artillery, 1 company of engineers, 1 troop of cavalry, and 1 signal company. On June 30, 1917, these units and staff departments numbered 237 officers and 3,021 enlisted men. After May 20, 1917, the 4 regiments of infantry were consolidated into 2 regiments.

On June 1, 1918, the National Guard was called into Federal service and organized into the 1st and 2d Hawaiian Regiments of Infantry. The company of engineers, the troop of cavalry, and the signal company mentioned above, were disbanded. The inducted units replaced regular troops at Schofield Barracks and Fort Shafter.

Reorganization of Philippine Scouts and Redistribution of Garrisons

At outbreak of war, the Philippine Scouts consisted of 135 officers and 5,567 enlisted men, organized into 13 infantry battalions and distributed among 12 stations. The 37th Company, Philippine Scouts, was undergoing training as an engineer unit.

In April 1918, authority was received to add 4 battalions and 18 separate companies to the Scouts. Upon completion of reorganization, the native troops were expanded on a provisional basis to 4 regiments of infantry, 1 regiment of field artillery (mountain), 1 field signal battalion, 1 battalion of engineers, and 3 independent battalions of infantry (mountain, prison, Moro). The strength under the new organization was 292 officers and 8,230 enlisted men, exclusive of Regular Army field officers detailed for duty with the Scouts.

The reorganization resulted in the withdrawal of troops from Augur Barracks (Jolo), Camp Overton (Mindanao), Fort San Pedro (Iloilo), Ludlow Barracks (Parang), Regan Barracks (Albay), and Warwick Barracks (Cebu). By June 30, 1918, the new organizations had been concentrated at eight stations as follows:

Fort William McKinley: 1st and 2d Philippine Inf. (Prov.).

Camp Stotsenburg: 1st Philippine F.A. (Prov., Mountain).

Camp McGrath: 3d Philippine Inf. (Prov.).

Fort Mills: 4th Philippine Inf. (Prov.); 5th Bn. (Prison Gd.), P.S.

Camp Nichols: 1st Philippine F. Sig. Bn. (Prov.).

Camp Eldridge: 1st Philippine Engrs. (Prov.).

Camp John Hay: 2d Bn. (Mountain), P.S.

Pettit Barracks: 13th Bn. (Moro), P.S.

Siberian Expedition

In July 1918, the 27th and 31st Regts. of Inf. (91 officers and 2,692 enlisted men) were designated and prepared for service as part of the American Expeditionary Force in Siberia. This contingent left the Philippines in August 1918, and returned during March and April 1920.

Philippine National Guard

The Philippine National Guard was organized under authority of Act No. 2715 of the Philippine Legislature approved March 17, 1917, entitled "An Act to establish the Philippine Militia" et cetera. On January 26, 1918, the President approved an act authorizing the locally created armed forces in the Philippine Islands to be organized and called into United States service in the same manner as the National Guard of the States.

Pursuant to the authority granted him in Act No. 2715 of the Philippine Legislature, the Governor General organized the guard and at various times thereafter offered to the President for Federal service an infantry division as a National Guard unit. On November 18, 1918, the President signed a proclamation calling the Infantry Division, Philippine National Guard, into Federal service for 1 month's training effective November 20, 1918. For further information see pp. 674, 675.

CHAPTER III

INTRODUCTION

The divisions which went overseas are described in Volume II of the Order of Battle series. In this chapter, only such divisions as were organized in the summer and fall of 1918 and had no opportunity for oversea service will be found recorded, along the general lines followed in Volume II.

All infantry divisions were ordered organized in accordance with Tables of Organization, Series A, Jan. 14, 1918, Table 1, a copy of which follows.

The first group of six divisions (9th to 14th incl.) began training about Aug. 1, 1918, and it was planned to have the training completed by Nov. 30, 1918. Similarly, the other divisions (15th to 20th incl., 94th to 102d incl., and the 15th Cav. Div.) were to undergo training for a period of 4 months, before becoming available for service abroad.

The training plan contemplated unit instruction, in successive phases, up to and including the regiment, with emphasis being placed on open warfare and with minimum attention devoted to trench warfare. This unit instruction was to be followed by a definite period of combined training. Every effort was made to achieve uniformity in the training of these divisions. However, owing to the influenza epidemic which prevailed from Sept. to Nov. 1918, the training program suffered considerable interference.

All officers, before being sent to their divisions, underwent training in the specialties required of them at the various schools created for that purpose, such as the Infantry School of Arms, Artillery School of Fire, and Engineer Camp of Instruction. Division chiefs of staff and their assistants were given a course in staff duties at the Army War College, one month before their respective divisions were organized.

Cadres of noncommissioned officers and partly trained men were furnished by replacement camps for each infantry regiment. Infantry regiments were organized at camps designated in War Department directives, but the units pertaining to the special arms received their initial training at camps that had been provided for the purpose, in order to economize instructors and special equipment.

Inasmuch as it was planned that each group of six divisions

RECORD OF EVENTS

Organization and Training 1918

On July 8, the War Department directed organization of the 9th Division at Camp Sheridan, Ala. On July 16, the organization of the 9th Field Artillery Brigade at Camp McClellan, Ala., was ordered. Formation of the Division began July 17, Col. Charles C. Clark assuming command on the following day.

On July 31, the strength of the Division was approximately 8,000 officers and men. During August, drafts from Camps Hancock, Meade, Taylor, Travis, and Upton, Forts Thomas and Slocum, Columbus Barracks, and other stations brought the divisional strength to about 22,000 officers and men. At the end of Sept. the strength reached a peak of 25,000 officers and men.

Systematic training began in Aug., the 9th F.A. Brig. and 9th Am. Tn. remaining at the Field Artillery Brigade Firing Center, Camp McClellan, Ala., for that purpose. On Oct. 28, 9th Sup. Tn. proceeded to Detroit, Mich., for convoy duty. On the same day, Advance Detachment of Division moved to Camp Mills, N. Y., preparatory to its departure overseas.

Post-Armistice Activities and Demobilization 1918-19

On Nov. 11, 1918, the signing of the Armistice suspended all contemplated oversea movements, Advance Detachment returning to Camp Sheridan, Ala. During Dec., 45th Inf. took station at Camp Gordon, Ga.; 1st Bn. 67th Inf. at Camp McClellan, Ala.; 3d Bn. 67th Inf. at Camp Shelby, Miss.; and elements 1st Bn. 46th Inf. at New Orleans, La., Fayetteville, N. C., Little Rock, Ark., and Charleston, S. C.

On Jan. 17, 1919, demobilization of emergency personnel and of all units, except 45th and 46th Inf., was ordered. On Feb. 5, D.H.Q., Hq. 17th Inf. Brig., Hq. 18th Inf. Brig. were demobilized at Camp Sheridan, Ala., and Hq. 9th F.A. Brig. was disbanded at Camp McClellan, Ala. Demobilization was completed Feb. 15, 1919.

RECORD OF EVENTS
Organization and Training 1918

On July 9, the War Department directed organization of the 10th Div. at Camp Funston, Kans. Organization was completed Aug. 10, when Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood assumed command.

On Aug. 31, the Division reached a strength of 22,300 officers and men drawn chiefly from Ill., Kans., Mo., Nebr., and S. Dak., intermixed with small quotas from the United States at large. At the end of Nov., the strength reached a peak of 24,829 officers and enlisted men.

Systematic training began in Aug. During latter part of Oct., 10th Sup. Tn., 10th Am. Tn., and elements of 10th San. Tn. proceeded to Detroit, Mich., for convoy duty. On Oct. 27, Advance Detachment of Division moved to New York via Camp Mills, sailed Nov. 2, and arrived at Brest, France, Nov. 9. On Nov. 1, 210th Engrs. and Tn. left for Camp Mills.

Post-Armistice Activities and Demobilization 1918-19

On Nov. 11, 1918, the signing of the Armistice suspended the movement overseas. On Nov. 29, the 20th Inf. was detached from Division and assigned to Central Department, elements proceeding Dec. 12, 1918—Jan. 4, 1919, to Forts Brady, Leavenworth, Riley, and Sheridan; to Camp Lloyd Wheaton; and to Rock Island, Nitro, and Denver for guard duty. Early in Jan. elements of 10th San. Tn. and 10th Am. Tn. rejoined; Advance Detachment arrived at New York from overseas.

On Jan. 18, 1919, demobilization of emergency personnel and of all units, except 20th Inf. and 41st Inf., was ordered. Units were disbanded beginning Jan. 21. On Feb. 13, Hq. 19th Inf. Brig., Hq. 20th Inf. Brig., and Hq. 10th F.A. Brig. were demobilized at Camp Funston, Kans., followed by demobilization of D.H.Q. Feb. 18. Demobilization was completed Mar. 31, when 210th Engr. Tn. was disbanded.

RECORD OF EVENTS

Organization and Training 1918

On July 9, the War Department directed organization of the 11th Div. at Camp Meade, Md., and July 16 organization of the 11th F.A. Brig. at the same camp. Formation of the Division began with the arrival of leading units 17th Inf., Brig. Gen. Joseph A. Gaston assuming command Aug. 5. On Sept. 25, 11th F.A. Brig. was replaced by 24th F.A. Brig., stationed at Camp Knox, Ky., the former having been designated as corps artillery.

On Aug. 31, the strength of the Division approximated 15,000 officers and men. Just before the signing of the Armistice, the strength reached a peak of about 25,000 officers and men.

Systematic training began in Aug., 24th F.A. Brig. remaining at the Field Artillery Brigade Firing Center, Camp Knox, Ky., for that purpose. On Oct. 25, Advance Detachment of Division moved to Camp Mills, N. Y., en route to Liverpool, England, where it arrived Nov. 8.

Post-Armistice Activities and Demobilization 1918-19

On Nov. 11, 1918, the signing of the Armistice suspended all contemplated oversea movements. On Nov. 29, the 63d Inf. was detached from Division and assigned to Eastern Department, where it performed guard duty during Dec. and Jan. near Baltimore, Md., New York, N. Y., Washington, D. C., and Wilmington, Del. On Dec. 27, Advance Detachment returned to Camp Meade from overseas.

On Jan. 17, 1919, demobilization of emergency personnel and of all units, except 17th Inf. and 63d Inf., was ordered. Demobilization of the Division was accomplished as follows: At Camp Meade, Md.—Hq. 21st Inf. Brig. and Hq. 22d Inf. Brig. Feb. 3, D.H.Q. Feb. 5; at Camp Knox, Ky.—Hq. 24th F.A. Brig. Feb. 7.

RECORD OF EVENTS

Organization and Training 1918

On July 31, the War Department directed organization of the 19th Div. at Camp Dodge, Iowa. On Aug. 2, organization of the 19th F.A. Brig. at Camp Bowie, Tex., was ordered. Formation of the Division began in Sept., after 2d Inf. and 14th Inf. had been concentrated at Camp Dodge, Iowa, Col. William C. Bennett assuming temporary command Sept. 1.

On Sept. 30, the strength of the Division, including the three field artillery regiments and ammunition train stationed at Camp Bowie, Tex., was about 7,600 officers and men. At the end of Oct. the strength was approximately 12,000, and, on Nov. 30, reached a peak of some 14,600 officers and men.

Systematic training began as the various units were formed. The 19th F.A. Brig. moved to Fort Sill, Okla. Oct. 6-10, for training at the Field Artillery Brigade Firing Center. The 219th Engrs. joined the Division at Camp Dodge, Iowa, in Nov.

Post-Armistice Activities and Demobilization 1918-19

On Dec. 11, the 14th Inf. was detached from Division and assigned to Camp Grant, Ill. for station. On Jan. 19, 1919, demobilization of emergency personnel and of all units, except 2d Inf. and 14th Inf., was ordered. Demobilization of the Division was accomplished as follows: At Fort Sill, Okla.—Hq. 19th F.A. Brig. Feb. 13; at Camp Dodge, Iowa—Hq. 37th and 38th Inf. Brigs. Jan 28; D.H.Q. Feb. 14.

RECORD OF EVENTS

This Division was never organized, although organization was at one time contemplated. Instead, the War Department on June 6, 1918, issued orders for the organization of a Provisional Division at Las Casas, San Juan, P. R., under Series A, Tables of Organization, Jan. 14, 1918.

The personnel was to come from the first Puerto Rican draft. Three complete infantry regiments and as many complete infantry rifle companies as practicable were to be formed; the units thus organized to be available for formation into a provisional brigade.

On Oct. 22, 1918, a Provisional Tactical Brigade, consisting of the 373d Infantry and 374th Infantry, was organized. On Oct. 31, 1918, the three regiments that had been formed numbered about 10,600 officers and men. On Dec. 18, 1918, demobilization was ordered and by Jan. 11, 1919 all regiments were disbanded.

RECORD OF EVENTS

Organization and Training

On Nov. 27, 1917, the War Department directed organization of the 15th Cav. Div. for service abroad, from nine regular cavalry regiments stationed along the Mexican border. Formation of the Division began early in Dec. 1917, in conformity with above Tables of Organization. Div. Hq. was established at Fort Bliss, Tex.; Hq. 1st Cav. Brig. at Fort Sam Houston, Tex.; Hq. 2d Cav. Brig. at Fort Bliss, Tex.; and Hq. 3d Cav. Brig. at Douglas, Ariz. On Dec. 10, 1917, Maj. Gen. George W. Read assumed command of the Division.

1st Division, Philippine National Guard

Systematic training was accomplished by assembling two-thirds of each brigade, the third regiment being relieved from border duty from time to time. The new National Army cavalry regiments that were then being organized, were eventually to take over the border patrol. During Feb. 1918, the Division Commander reported the organization of the Division as completed. Meanwhile the 6th Cav., 7th Cav., 14th Cav., and 15th Cav. had been alerted for early oversea service. On Mar. 4, 1918, the 6th Cav. and the 15th Cav. proceeded to Camp Merritt, N. J., and went overseas; no other unit followed.

Disbandment of Division

On May 6, 1918, the Commanding General, Southern Department, recommended the breaking up of the Division, on the grounds that the border-patrol work could be improved if the existing divisional organization were abandoned for the time being, especially since the National Army cavalry regiments would not be ready for efficient border service under 9 months. The War Department then issued instructions to discontinue the divisional organization, and on May 12, 1918, the Division ceased to exist. All component units remained at their respective stations, carrying on their various duties within the border organization. See also p. 606.

RECORD OF EVENTS

Organization and Training

On Nov. 27, 1918, the War Department was advised by the State Department that the President had signed a proclamation Nov. 18, 1918, calling the Philippine National Guard into Federal Service for 1 month's training effective Nov. 20, 1918. On Nov. 29, 1918, the War Department sent a cablegram to the Governor General informing him that the President had called the Infantry Division, Philippine National Guard, of the strength provided in Table 25, Tables of Organization 1917, less one major general, one regiment cavalry, one aero squadron, artillery, and trains; and that the troops were to assemble at Camp Tomas Claudio, Parañaque, Rizal, under orders of the Department Commander.

Meanwhile, in pursuance to the Presidential proclamation, the Division had already been concentrated at Camp Tomas Claudio on Nov. 20, 1918, and had been mustered into Federal service Dec. 2, 1918. The necessary officer personnel had been procured from a training camp which was held for a period of 3 months beginning July 5, 1918.

The War Department prescribed a three-month training period. The troops were armed with the Russian rifle and issued old-style equipment. Despite many handicaps, such as linguistic difficulties, inadequacy of arms, and deficiencies in uniforms and equipment, remarkable progress was made during the training period. On Dec. 14, 1918, the designation of the Division was changed from Philippine National Guard to Philippine Guard.

Disbandment of Division

The Division was mustered out Dec. 19, 1918; however training was continued for 2 months thereafter, whereupon this temporary force was disbanded.

CHAPTER IV

POSTS, CAMPS, AND STATONS

INTRODUCTION

The various components of the Army raised in the Zone of the Interior were organized and trained at divisional camps and cantonments, at special camps, at Army posts, and at a variety of other military stations.

DIVISIONAL CAMPS AND CANTONMENTS

These camps were built early in the war to afford shelter and training facilities to the National Guard and National Army divisions that were to be mobilized, and also to house some of the Regular Army divisions in process of organization.

The National Guard divisions were concentrated at Camps Beauregard, La.; Bowie, Tex.; Cody, N. Mex.; Doniphan, Okla.; Fremont, Calif.; Greene, N. C.; Hancock, Ga.; Kearny, Calif.; Logan, Tex.; MacArthur, Tex.; McClellan, Ala.; Sevier, S. C.; Shelby, Miss.; Sheridan, Ala.; Wadsworth, S. C.; and Wheeler, Ga.

With the Selective Service Law in operation, draftees were sent to the following National Army divisional cantonments for organization and training: Camps Custer, Mich.; Devens, Mass.; Dix, N. J.; Dodge, Iowa; Funston, Kans.; Gordon, Ga.; Grant, Ill.; Jackson, S. C.; Lee, Va.; Lewis, Wash.; Meade, Md.; Pike, Ark.; Sherman, Ohio; Taylor, Ky.; Travis, Tex.; and Upton, N. Y.

SPECIAL CAMPS

These establishments were used as mobilization and training centers for the troops of the various branches and services, as replacement camps, as demobilization camps, as flying fields, and for other purposes.

Some of the more important camps of this type were—Camps Bragg, N. C., and Knox, Ky., field artillery training centers; Camp Abraham Eustis, Va., coast artillery training center; Camp Forrest, Ga., engineer training center; Camp A. A. Humphreys, Va., engineer training and replacement camp; Camp Crane, Pa., mobilization and training camp for medical units; Camps Holabird, Md., Jesup, Ga., Normoyle, Tex., Motor Transport Corps establishments; Camps Joseph E. Johnston, Fla., Meigs, D. C., Quartermaster Corps centers; Camp Alfred Vail, N. J., Signal Corps center; Camps Colt, Pa., Polk, N. C., tank centers; some forty flying fields and balloon stations; and about ten embarkation and debarkation camps.

Training and replacement centers were established in the spring and summer of 1918 at divisional camps as follows: at Camps Lee, Gordon, Pike, MacArthur, and Grant, for infantry; at Camp Hancock, for machine-gun troops; at Camps Jackson and Taylor, for field artillery.

Demobilization centers were established for a longer or shorter period, between the Armistice and the latter part of 1919, at the following divisional camps, viz: Beauregard, Bowie, Custer, Devens, Dix, Dodge, Funston, Gordon, Grant, Greene, Hancock, Jackson, Kearny, Lee, Lewis, Logan, MacArthur, McClellan, Meade, Pike, Sevier, Shelby, Sheridan, Sherman, Taylor, Travis, Upton, and Wadsworth. In addition, Camps Greenleaf, A. A. Humphreys, Forts Bliss, Logan, Oglethorpe, D. A. Russell and Columbus Barracks and Presidio of San Francisco were used for a like purpose.

CAMP FACILITIES

In National Guard camps, troops were sheltered under canvas, with semi-permanent structures for utilities and other purposes. National Army cantonments consisted of temporary barracks of either the northern or southern type; all buildings were constructed of wood and only in an emergency was canvas used to supplement other accommodations.

In general, each camp was functionally complete with its own road system, railroad sidings, water supply, sewerage, refrigerating and heating equipment, electric light installations, fire-fighting apparatus, base hospital, remount station, rifle range, warehouses, bakery, laundry, clothing and shoe repair shop, schools, stables, welfare buildings, and theatre.

PERMANENT CAMP UNITS

Each camp, post, or station had a housekeeping detachment, so-called station complement, commensurate with its size. Included therein were among others, in the major camps, auxiliary remount depots, bakery companies, medical troops, camp headquarters, camp utilities, depot brigades, development battalions, engineer depot detachments, fire truck and hose companies, guard and fire companies, motor transport companies, ordnance depot companies, provost guard companies, quartermaster detachments, reserve labor battalion or companies, salvage units, service park units, signal detachments, and in some instances wagon companies.

ARRANGEMENT OF CHAPTER

All camps, posts, and stations at which troops were kept during the war, have been depicted in alphabetical order by department. Only the large camps, such as divisional camps and cantonments and special camps, have been treated in considerable detail, under such subheads as history, description, command status, camp commanders, and average strength. The accounts of the lesser military stations have been kept in proportion to their relative importance, omitting lists of commanders.

Generally, the story of each camp, post, and station deals with its history, location, facilities, and special features, and with costs of construction and area, where applicable. Under troops are shown all units that at any time served at the particular station, distinction being drawn between divisional and nondivisional units. Divisional units have been grouped in numerical sequence of the divisions of which they were components and are followed by the nondivisional units, arranged by branch in alphabetical order. Station complements are shown for major camps and cantonments only and precede the divisional units in each case.

For the interpretation of such expressions as "36th Div. (less 131st F. A., and 11th T. M. Btry.)" see pp. 680, 681.

Under nondivisional units, there appear all organizations—tactical, special, and technical—down to and including independent battalions, not forming part of a tactical division. To this category also belong independent companies, batteries, aero squadrons, trains, medical formations, and other tactical units of similar size. However, special and technical units of company or lesser strength, as a rule, are not accounted for; neither are troops which remain at any given point for a very short time only.

For specific information as to length of service of any unit at a camp, post, or station, it will be necessary to consult Chapter V. In this chapter, the great majority of large and small units has been traced through all stations in the United States and the possessions, from outbreak of war or organization to demobilization or reversion to peace status. Special and technical units of company or lesser size are not so treated, but are accounted for in special tables with period of active service only.

Alexander, Camp, Va.

History: Named in honor of Lt. John H. Alexander, 9th U. S. Cav., a colored graduate of the U. S. Military Academy, 1887. Originally established, Aug. 1917, in connection with the Port of Embarkation, Newport News, and as part of Camp Hill. Used as training and embarkation camp for stevedore regiments and labor battalions, colored, until Nov. 11, 1918; thereafter for purposes of debarkation. Also used for housing permanent labor detachments employed in various utilities around Newport News. Construction of a tent camp started, Aug. 1917, camp opening, Sept. 7, 1917. In June 1918, construction was begun at a new site, north of Old Stevedore Camp, known as the Darling and Woodfin tract, to provide additional shelter in the form of a tent camp and cantonment. Maximum strength of 463 officers and 7,342 enlisted men, reached Sept. 1918. For movements of colored troops, see p. 520. Camp headquarters personnel transferred to Camp Hill, July 18, 1919, when camp was abandoned to be sold.

Description: Temporary quartermaster camp, consisting of a stevedore cantonment and labor battalion encampments, located on east bank of James River, Warwick County, immediately north of Camp Hill, and about 3 miles from Newport News. Facilities—Hospitalization: There was no regular camp hospital, but infirmaries were used, supplemented during the influenza epidemic of 1918 by 8 barracks turned into an emergency hospital. Seriously sick were transferred to nearby hospitals for treatment. Old Camp: Consisting of tents and huts; capacity 3 battalions. New Camp: Consisting of a tent section accommodating 4 battalions, and of a cantonment section sheltering 2 battalions. Officers' School: 3-month course in stevedore duties given to 1,900 students. Other Facilities: Included a delousing station, opened July 1918. See pp. 429, 678.

Camp, consisting of tents, huts, and some 90 buildings. Troop capacity—About 10,000, including space for some 500 white and 9,500 colored troops. Construction costs to June 30, 1919—included in those of Camp Stuart. Area—Old camp included in that of Camp Hill; new camp comprised about 57 acres.

Command Status: Under jurisdiction of Camp Hill until Aug. 15, 1918; thereafter commanding officer reported to commanding general, Port of Embarkation, Newport News.

Camp Commanders: 1918—Jan. 25, Col. Charles L. Dulin; Aug. 15, Maj. Winter D. Douty (ad interim); Dec. 19, Lt. Col. Kurt Franke.

1919—Jan. 10, Maj. Thomas S. Bridges through June 20.

Hill, Camp, Va.

History: Named in honor of Lt. Gen. A. P. Hill, C. S. A., who commanded the III Corps, Army of Northern Virginia, 1863–65. Established Aug. 1917, in connection with Port of Embarkation, Newport News. Included in its northern area a camp for stevedore regiments and labor battalions which, Aug. 15, 1918, was detached and constituted a separate entity under the name of Camp Alexander. Served as embarkation cantonment to Nov. 11, 1918, thereafter for purposes of debarkation. Construction started Aug. 1917 and continued through 1918. Prior to Jan. 1918, only small detachments from several divisions to accompany horse and mule shipments to Europe passed through camp; thereafter casuals and small units formed the larger portion of all transient troops. See p. 520.

Camp headquarters personnel transferred to Camp Stuart, Va., Oct. 7, 1919, when camp was abandoned to be sold.

Description: Temporary camp to receive troops and animals prior to their embarkation on transports or after debarkation.

Located on east bank of James River, Warwick County, about 2 miles north of Newport News. Facilities—Camp Hospital: Opened, Nov. 1918, operating under jurisdiction of port surgeon; abandoned Jan. 1, 1919. Attended to all ordinary cases; patients requiring special care were sent to Camp Stuart embarkation hospital or to Camp Morrison hospital. Motor Truck Group: This was that part of camp which sheltered motor truck organizations only. Animal Embarkation Depot No. 301: Formed an integral part of camp, but operated under direct control of Remount Division, Wash., D. C. See p. 520. Other Facilities: Similar to those of Camp Merritt, including delousing plant with daily capacity of 1,500. See. p. 678.

Cantonment of some 400 buildings including corrals. Troop capacity—About 10,000. Construction costs to June 30, 1919—Included in those of Camp Stuart. Area—250 acres, of which 70 acres were allotted to animal embarkation depot.

Command Status: Commanding officer reported to commanding general, Port of Embarkation, Newport News.

by Port of Embarkation, Hoboken, N. J., to obtain additional facilities for troops in transit. Served as embarkation cantonment to Nov. 11, 1918; thereafter, for purposes of debarkation. See p. 516. Construction of cantonment started May 1918, and continued throughout the year. In 1919, camp was ordered to be abandoned and sold; continued to operate until Mar. 31, 1920, when garrison troops were transferred elsewhere.

Description: Temporary camp to receive troops prior to their embarkation on transports or after debarkation. Located in Nassau County, Long Island, N. Y., about 10 miles from eastern boundary of New York City. Facilities—Camp Base Hospital: In the beginning, a primitive camp hospital, supplemented by hospital facilities of the neighborhood, served the needs of the troops. Base hospital was organized Apr. 6, 1918, by making use of existing buildings on Mineola fairgrounds. In the fall of 1918, construction started on a 2,000-bed base hospital just to the east of fairgrounds, which was completed Feb. 1, 1919; abandoned Sept. 18, 1919. See N. Y. C. and p. 265. Other Facilities: Similar to those of Camp Merritt. See p. 678.

At first, tent camp; converted 1918 into cantonment. Troop capacity—About 46,000, including space for 40,000 transients (half in barracks and half in tents), 500 inmates of detention camp, and 5,500 members of permanent garrison. Construction costs to June 30, 1919—About $12,000,000. Area—About 500 acres.

Command Status: Commanding officer reported to Eastern Department, Sept. 1917–Mar. 1918; thereafter to commanding general, Port of Embarkation, Hoboken, N. J. Exercised jurisdiction of general courts-martial, June 1918–Sept. 1919.

Camp Commanders: 1917—Sept. 2, Brig. Gen. Robert A. Brown; Sept. 5, Maj. Gen. William A. Mann; Oct. 19, Brig. Gen. Michael J. Lenihan; Oct. 29, Brig. Gen. Robert A. Brown; Nov. 15, Brig. Gen. Henry Jerve; Dec. 15, Maj. Charles H. Smith.

1918—Apr. 4, Maj. Richard R. Pickering; Sept. 12, Lt. Col. Richard R. Pickering; Sept. 13, Maj. Ralph S. Kimball; Dec. 12, Lt. Col. Richard R. Pickering.

1919—May 12, Maj. Gen. Robert Alexander through June 20.

Upton, Camp, N. Y.

History: Named in honor of Maj. Gen. Emery Upton, U. S. V., native of N. Y., distinguished veteran of the Civil War, and author of "Military Policy of the United States". Established, July 18, 1917, to serve as training camp for the 77th Div. (N. A.), which occupied the cantonment, Aug. 1917-Mar. 1918. Construction started June 21, 1917, and continued through 1918.

The first inducted men reported Sept. 1-15, 1917; the last, Dec. 1-15, 1918. Approximate numbers received from States and other sources: Conn., 6,965; Del., 698; Mass., 4,093; N. J., 819; N. Y., 73,604; other States, 2,411; other camps, 32,393.

The camp was used as embarkation camp, Mar.-Nov. 1918; thereafter as debarkation camp. It absorbed the overflow from Camps Merritt and Mills. See p. 516. Designated as demobilization center, Dec. 3, 1918. Retained as permanent reservation.

Description: Reservation located 5 miles northeast of Yaphank, in Suffolk County. Facilities—Camp Base Hospital: Organized Sept. 1, 1917, by making use of centrally located barracks buildings, pending completion of base hospital. Opened, Nov. 2, 1917. See p. 265. Officers' Training Schools: Third Series—In operation, Jan. 5-Apr. 19, 1918. See pp. 81, 82. Demobilization Center: Number processed—About 202,329. Other Facilities: See p. 678.

Cantonment of 1,486 buildings. Troop capacity—43,356. Construction costs to June 30, 1919—About $15,000,000. Area—Cantonment site proper, about 4,000 acres; entire reservation—15,198 acres.

Command Status: Commanding officer reported direct to War Department; also exercised jurisdiction of general courts-martial till Sept. 24, 1919. On Aug. 15, 1918, camp, exclusive of canton-

History: Named in honor of Maj. Gen. Henry Knox, Continental Army, who served successively as brigadier general and chief of artillery, as commander-in-chief of the Army, and as Secretary of War, 1776–94. Originally known as Field Artillery Range, West Point, Ky. Project authorized July 19, 1918 for acquisition of additional land and establishment of field artillery cantonment and training center, to include accommodations for two artillery brigades, a 500-bed hospital, and a 500-horse veterinary hospital. Expansion of cantonment to house six artillery brigades, including the necessary range and camp utilities, authorized Sept. 4, 1918. Provision was also made for a 10,000-man officers' training school, a 2,500-bed base hospital, a 5,000 animal auxiliary remount station including a 1,000-animal veterinary hospital, a flying field (see Godman), and a balloon school. After signing of the Armistice, program was curtailed to accommodation of four field artillery brigades only, abandoning construction of officers' training school. Field artillery brigade firing center established Sept. 1918. Maximum strength of 625 officers and 11,391 enlisted men reached Nov. 1918. Camp retained as perma-ment reservation. Name changed to Fort Knox, 1932. See pp. 199, 204.

Description: Reservation located in Bullitt, Hardin, and Meade Counties, at Stithton, about 30 miles from Camp Z. Taylor. Facilities—A four-brigade cantonment, well-located firing and maneuver range, 1,000-bed camp hospital and remount depot, flying field and hangars. See p. 678.

Troop capacity—About 30,000. Cost of construction to June 30, 1919, including land—About $19,350,000. Area—About 30,346 acres.

Command Status: Subpost of Camp Zachary Taylor, for administrative purposes, until July 11, 1919, but operated under supervision of Chief of Field Artillery. Beginning July 12, 1919, commanding officer reported direct to War Department; also exercised jurisdiction of general courts-martial.

Camp Commanders: See commanders of Camp Zachary Taylor.

Alaskan Telegraph and Cable Lines Reservations

Authorized in 1900 for the purpose of connecting Headquarters, Department of Alaska, at St. Michael, by military telegraph and cable lines with other stations in Alaska. Various parcels were reserved from the public domain in Territory of Alaska, mainly during period 1905–13, for right of way and maintenance of military telegraph and cable lines. The Alaskan telegraph system embraced the following: (a) Land Lines—A total of 848 miles was in operation. Right of way consisted of a strip of land 100 feet wide (50 ft. on each side of center of telegraph line) along the United States military telegraph lines from Valdez to Ft. Egbert; from Ft. Egbert to boundary; from Gulkana Station to Ft. Gibbon; from Baker to Rampart; from Ft. Gibbon to St. Michael; and from Safety Harbor to Fort Davis; with an aggregate length of right of way of over 1,400 miles. For stations and telegraph lines in operation, Nov. 1919, see map of Alaska. (b) Cable Lines—A total of 2,626.8 miles of submarine cable connected Seattle, Wash., with stations in Alaska. The principal cable lines were those extending from Seattle to Seward; Sitka to Skagway; Sitka to Japonski Island; and Cape Fanshaw to Ketchikan. For stations and lines in operation, Nov. 1919, see map of Alaska. (c) Radio Stations—The following stations were in operation, Nov. 1919: Brooks, Circle, Craig, Fairbanks, Ft.
